

Chemical Tailoring at C—H Bonds

M. Christina White

Department of Chemistry, University of Illinois, USA

Discovery and development of iron, manganese, and palladium catalysts for selective, predictable, intermolecular C—H oxidation reactions. Elucidation of rules and underlying principles that enable predictable selectivity in very complex settings. Application of these reactions at late-stages to streamlining and diversifying chemical synthesis.